Mischief, mayhem, jokes and pranks are at the very core of The Beano's DNA led by its biggest stars, Dennis the Menace and Gnasher, The Bash Street Kids, Minnie the Minx, Biffy the Bear and Roger the Dodger.

Growing up can happen to anyone...put it off for a while with The Beano!

1 Containers

The `.container` class is used to horizontally constrain content at the highest level. It has an exact width of `1024px`. It should be used to wrap all content, ensuring that it stays within the maximum width of the page. Also includes padding on the left and right side to prevent content from resting against the edge of small screens.

In this example, the blue background on `.module` spans the width of the screen, while the `.container` inside constrains content to the target width. The `.fullwidth` class on `.module` gives the containing element a minimum width equal to our minimum page width. This prevents an issue where the background doesn't extend to the edge of the page when the browser is more narrow than the page and a user scrolls to the right.

    Content goes here.

In this example, `.container` can be the top level element because there is no background (or

Hidden Costs (Paul Boag)

“ Dark patterns help increase conversion short-term, but can damage company’s reputation irreversibly long-term. Often there are hidden costs that aren’t considered when a solution is implemented: lost in processing returns, cost of support, sales, marketing, renewed acquisition.

— The Kano Model

- Threshold attributes are all about basics.
Basic expectations that customers have.
- Performance attributes are all about satisfying.
These are the things customers know they want.
- Excitement attributes are all about delighting.
These are the things customers don't know they want.

The Process.

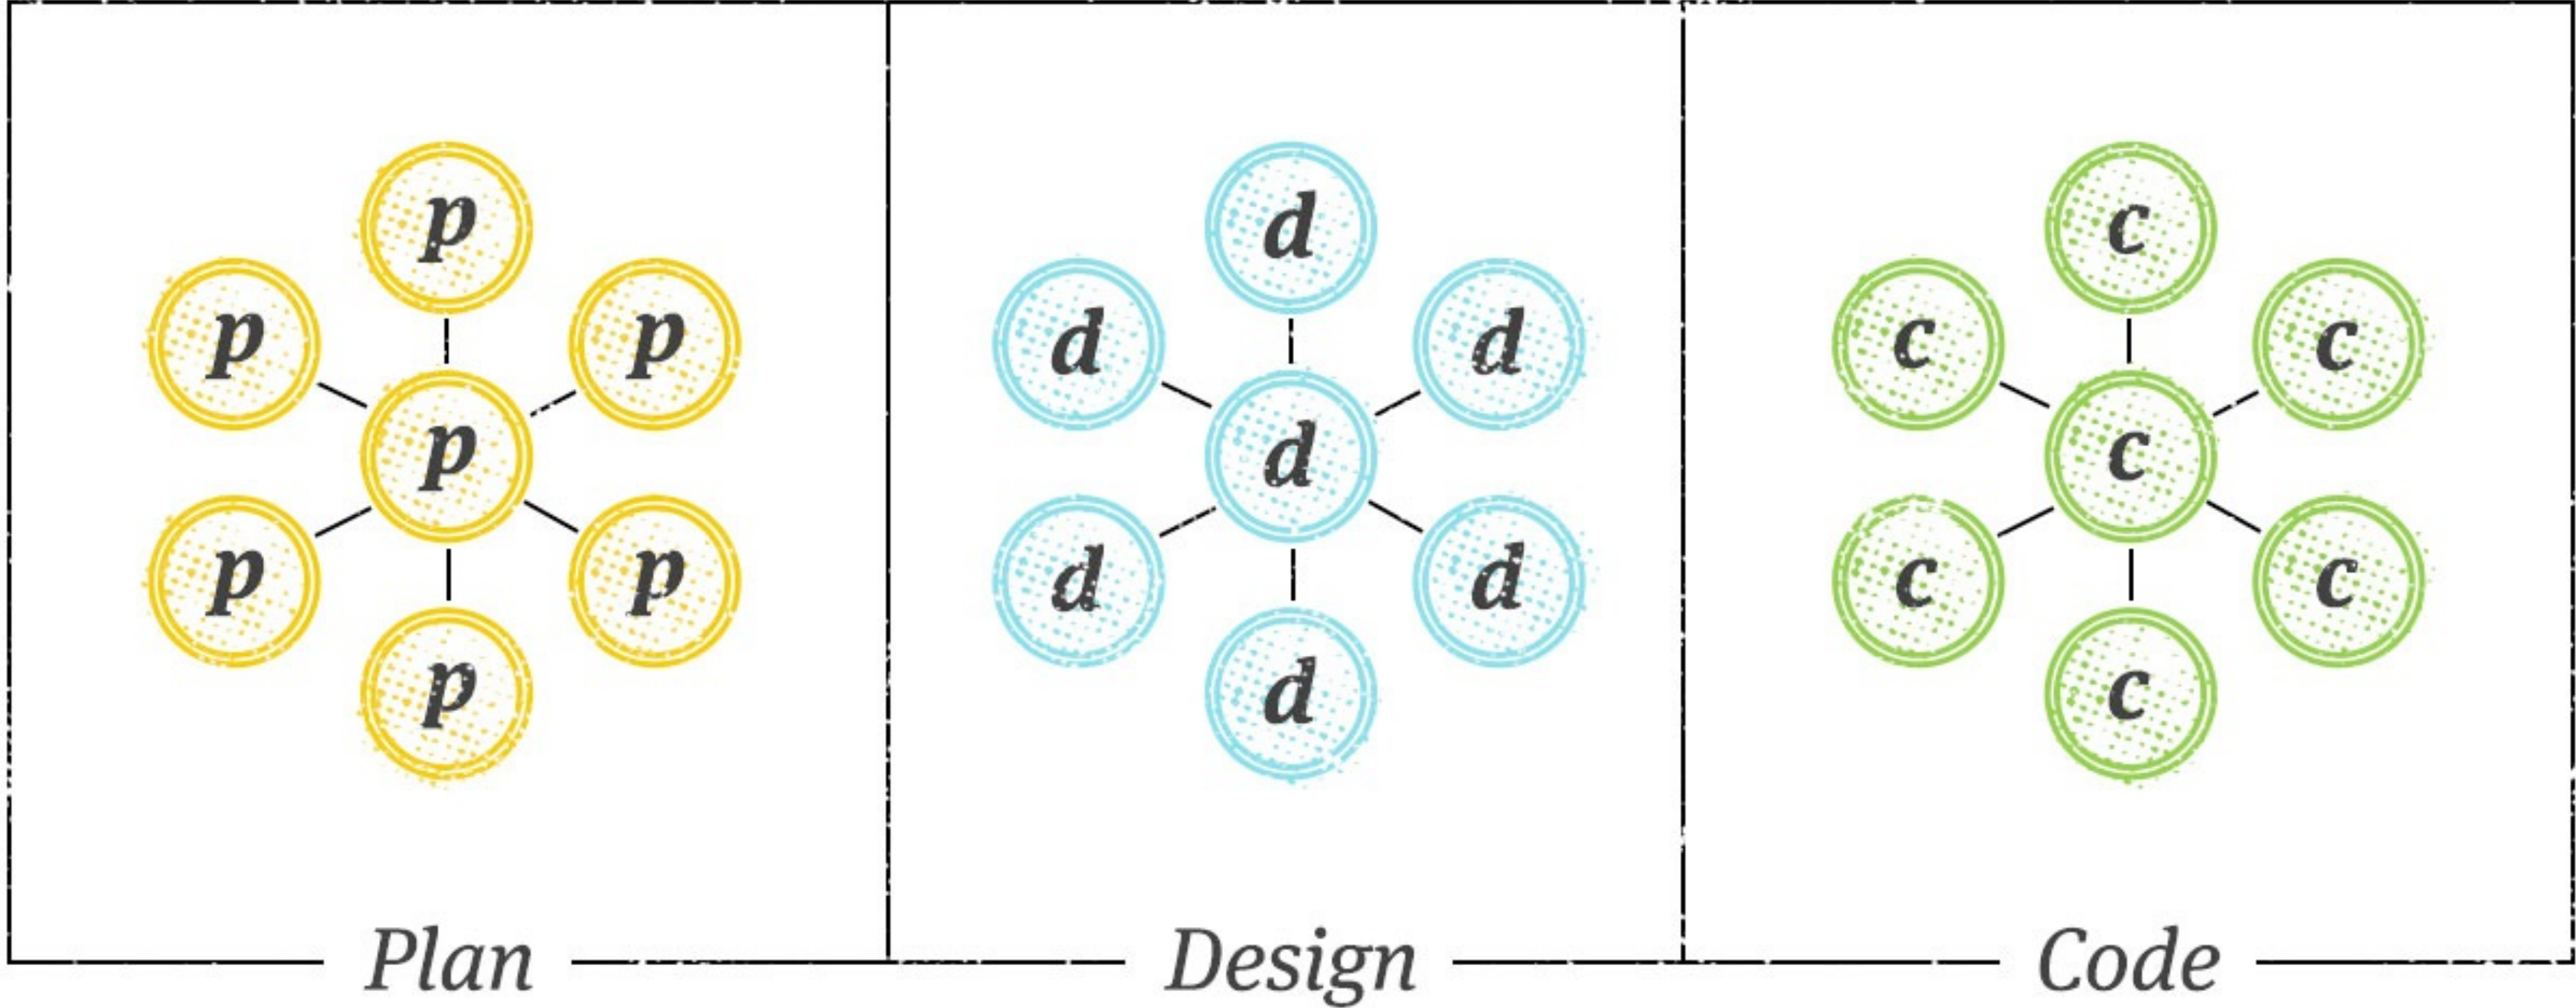

The Process.

We often focus on process and tools, but often overlook the hard part — alignment and design/dev literacy, wild-spread across the organization.

The Process.

Everybody is a designer in the team.

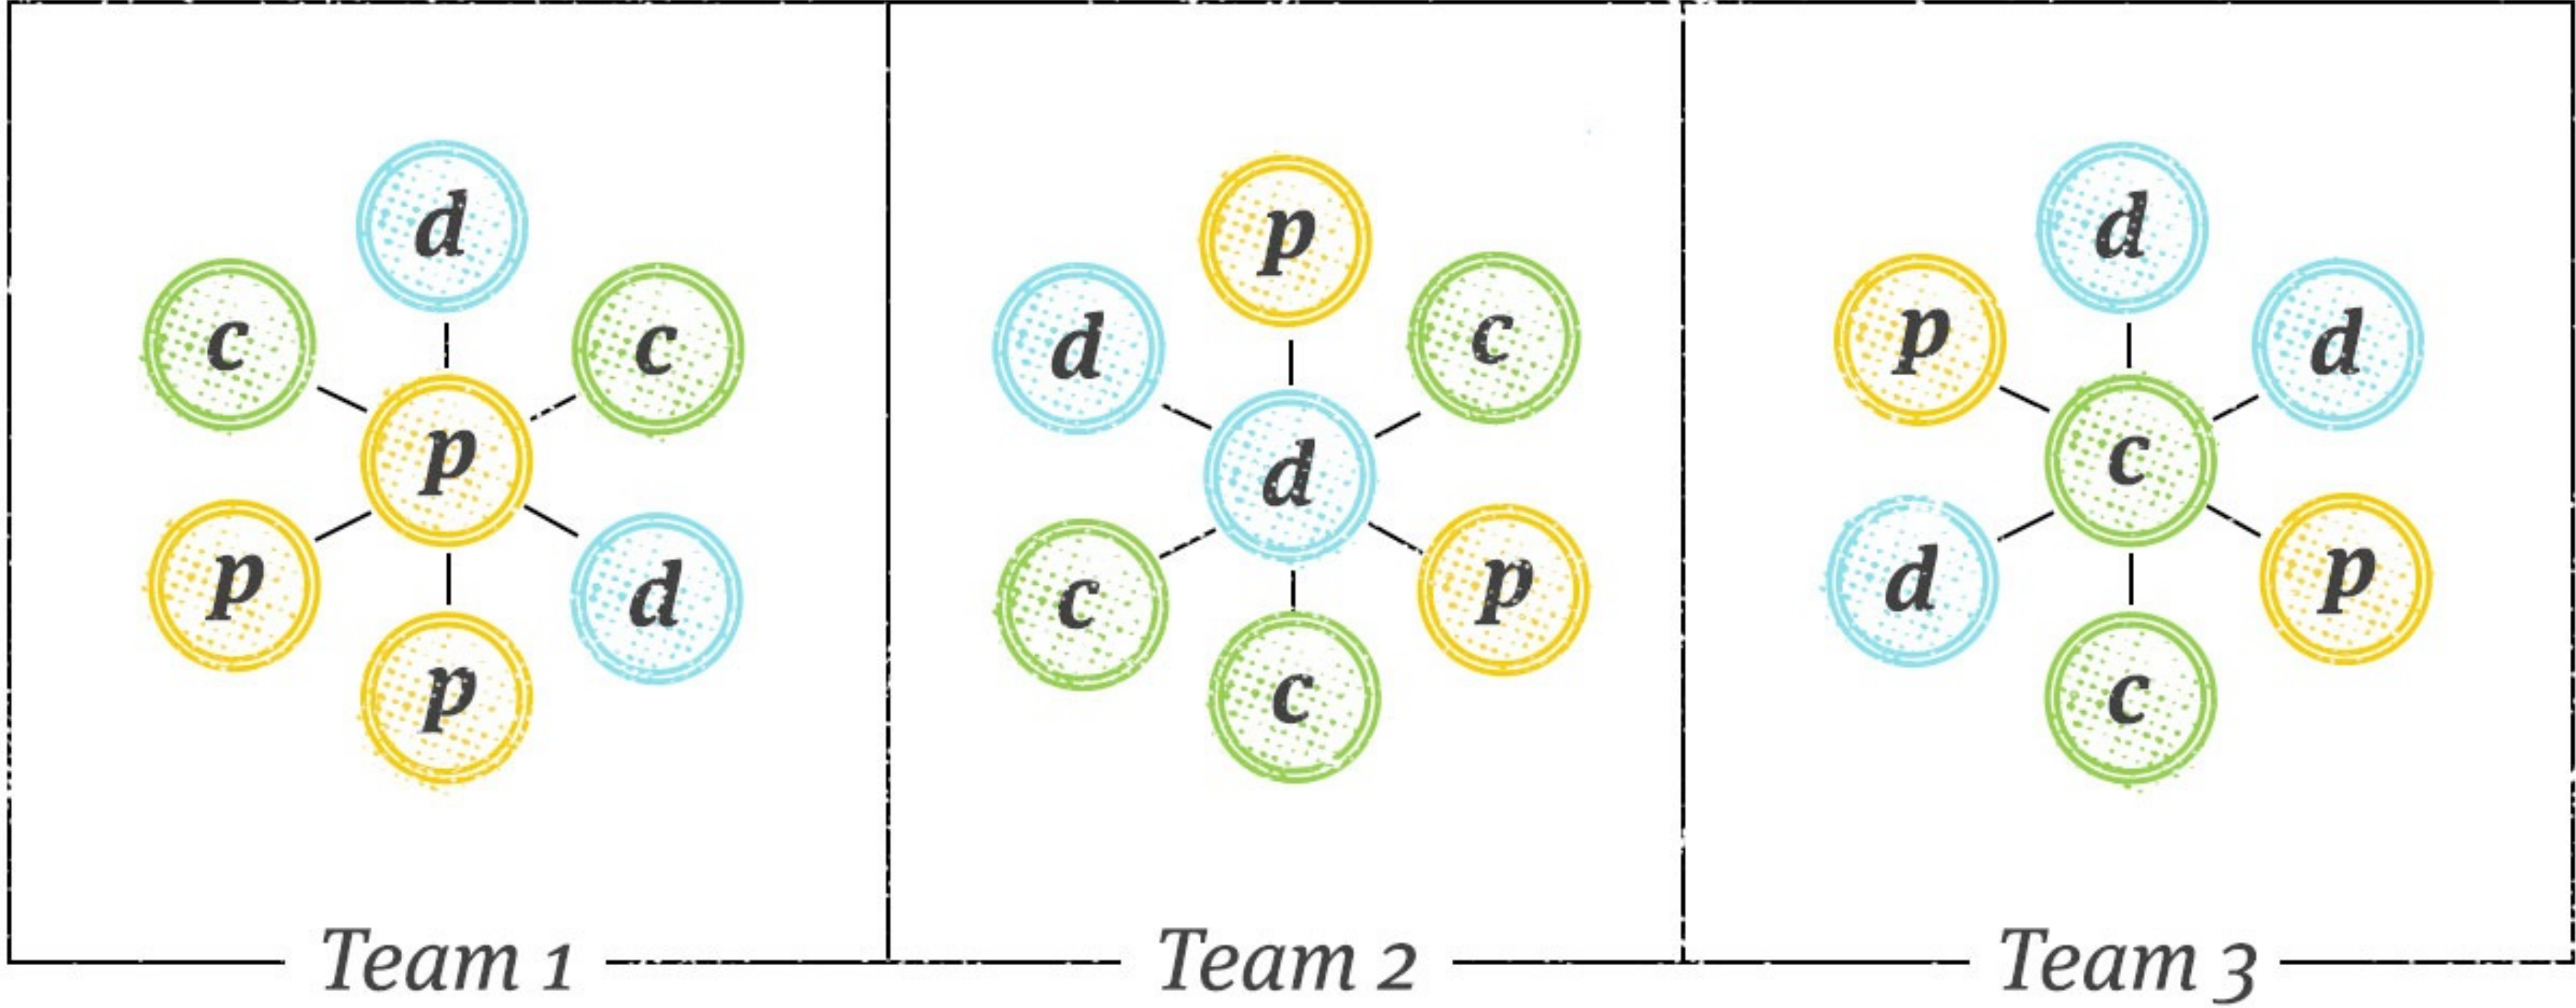

Because everybody on the team makes design decisions, consciously or not. To avoid mistakes, we need to communicate.

Tactical Teams

“ Build smaller, tactical teams — teams that are capable of executing multiple rounds of planning, design, and code quickly and independently.

Webseiten bei siggate

Alle Webseiten, die zur Marke siggate gehören, bauen wir im HoloDeck. So nennen wir die Integration unserer Pattern Library in Wordpress. Das HoloDeck enthält über 40 Patterns, aus denen man sich seine Webseite zusammenklicken kann. Jedes Pattern erfüllt einen ganz bestimmten Zweck. Genau so, wie auch jede Seite einen ganz bestimmten Zweck erfüllen soll. Und deswegen fangen wir auch immer damit an.

Den Zweck der Seite klären

Die Fragen, die immer über allem stehen müssen, sind: Welchen Zweck soll die Seite erfüllen? Mit welcher Intention kommen Besucher auf die Seite? Welche Informationen muss die Seite transportieren? Tools, wie die Empathy Map oder das Value Proposition Canvas, können bei der Bestimmung des Zwecks dienen.

Pattern-Auswahl treffen und Wireframe erstellen

Wenn der Zweck der Seite klar ist, wählen wir Patterns aus, die diesen Zweck unterstützen und erstellen ein Wireframe. Da alle Patterns immer die gesamte Seitenbreite einnehmen, müssen wir nur eine sinnvolle Reihenfolge festlegen, um die Informationsarchitektur zu klären. Das kann man super mit mehreren Leuten am Whiteboard machen.

3. Content kreieren

Wenn das Wireframe steht, kann man die Seite mit Leben füllen. Mit welchen Worten können wir unsere Geschichte am besten erzählen? Welche Bilder unterstützen unsere Aussagen? Das macht man am besten direkt im HoloDeck. So sieht man sofort, wie sich der Inhalt auf der Webseite verhält. Loggt euch dazu einfach auf eurer Seite unter /holodeck mit eurem Google-Account ein. (Beispiel: siggateteam.de/holodeck)

EINLEITUNG

Purpose-First - Webseiten bauen bei siggate

A Website, die zur Marke passt, macht sie aus. Die Website ist ein zentraler Bestandteil der Markenstrategie. Sie vermittelt Werte und Emotionen und ist ein wichtiger Kommunikationskanal. Eine Website, die nicht zur Marke passt, kann die Markenbotschaft verwässern und die Kundenerwartungen nicht erfüllen.

1. Den Zweck der Seite klären
Die Frage, die immer zuerst gestellt werden muss, ist: Was ist der Zweck der Website? Soll sie informieren, verkaufen, unterhalten oder eine Kombination aus all dem sein? Klären Sie den Zweck der Website, bevor Sie mit dem Design beginnen.

2. Pattern-Auswahl treffen und Wireframe erstellen
Wählen Sie ein Design-Pattern, das zu Ihrem Zweck und Ihrer Marke passt. Erstellen Sie ein Wireframe, das die Struktur und den Inhalt der Website darstellt. Das Wireframe ist ein wichtiges Werkzeug, um die Benutzererfahrung zu testen und zu optimieren.

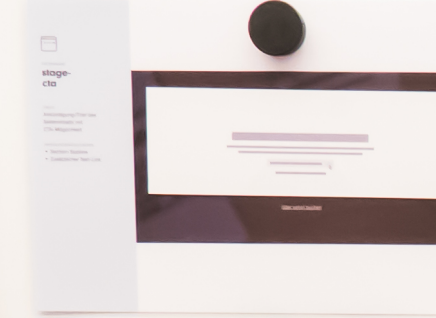

3. Content erstellen
Erstellen Sie hochwertigen Content, der Ihre Marke und Ihren Zweck widerspiegelt. Verwenden Sie Bilder, Videos, Texte und andere Medien, um Ihre Botschaft zu vermitteln. Achten Sie auf die Lesbarkeit und die Benutzerfreundlichkeit des Content.

Habt ihr noch Fragen oder Feedback?
Wir würden uns freuen, wenn Sie uns Ihre Gedanken mitteilen. Schreiben Sie uns eine E-Mail oder kontaktieren Sie uns telefonisch. Wir sind für Sie da!

Design for the User, Not the Device

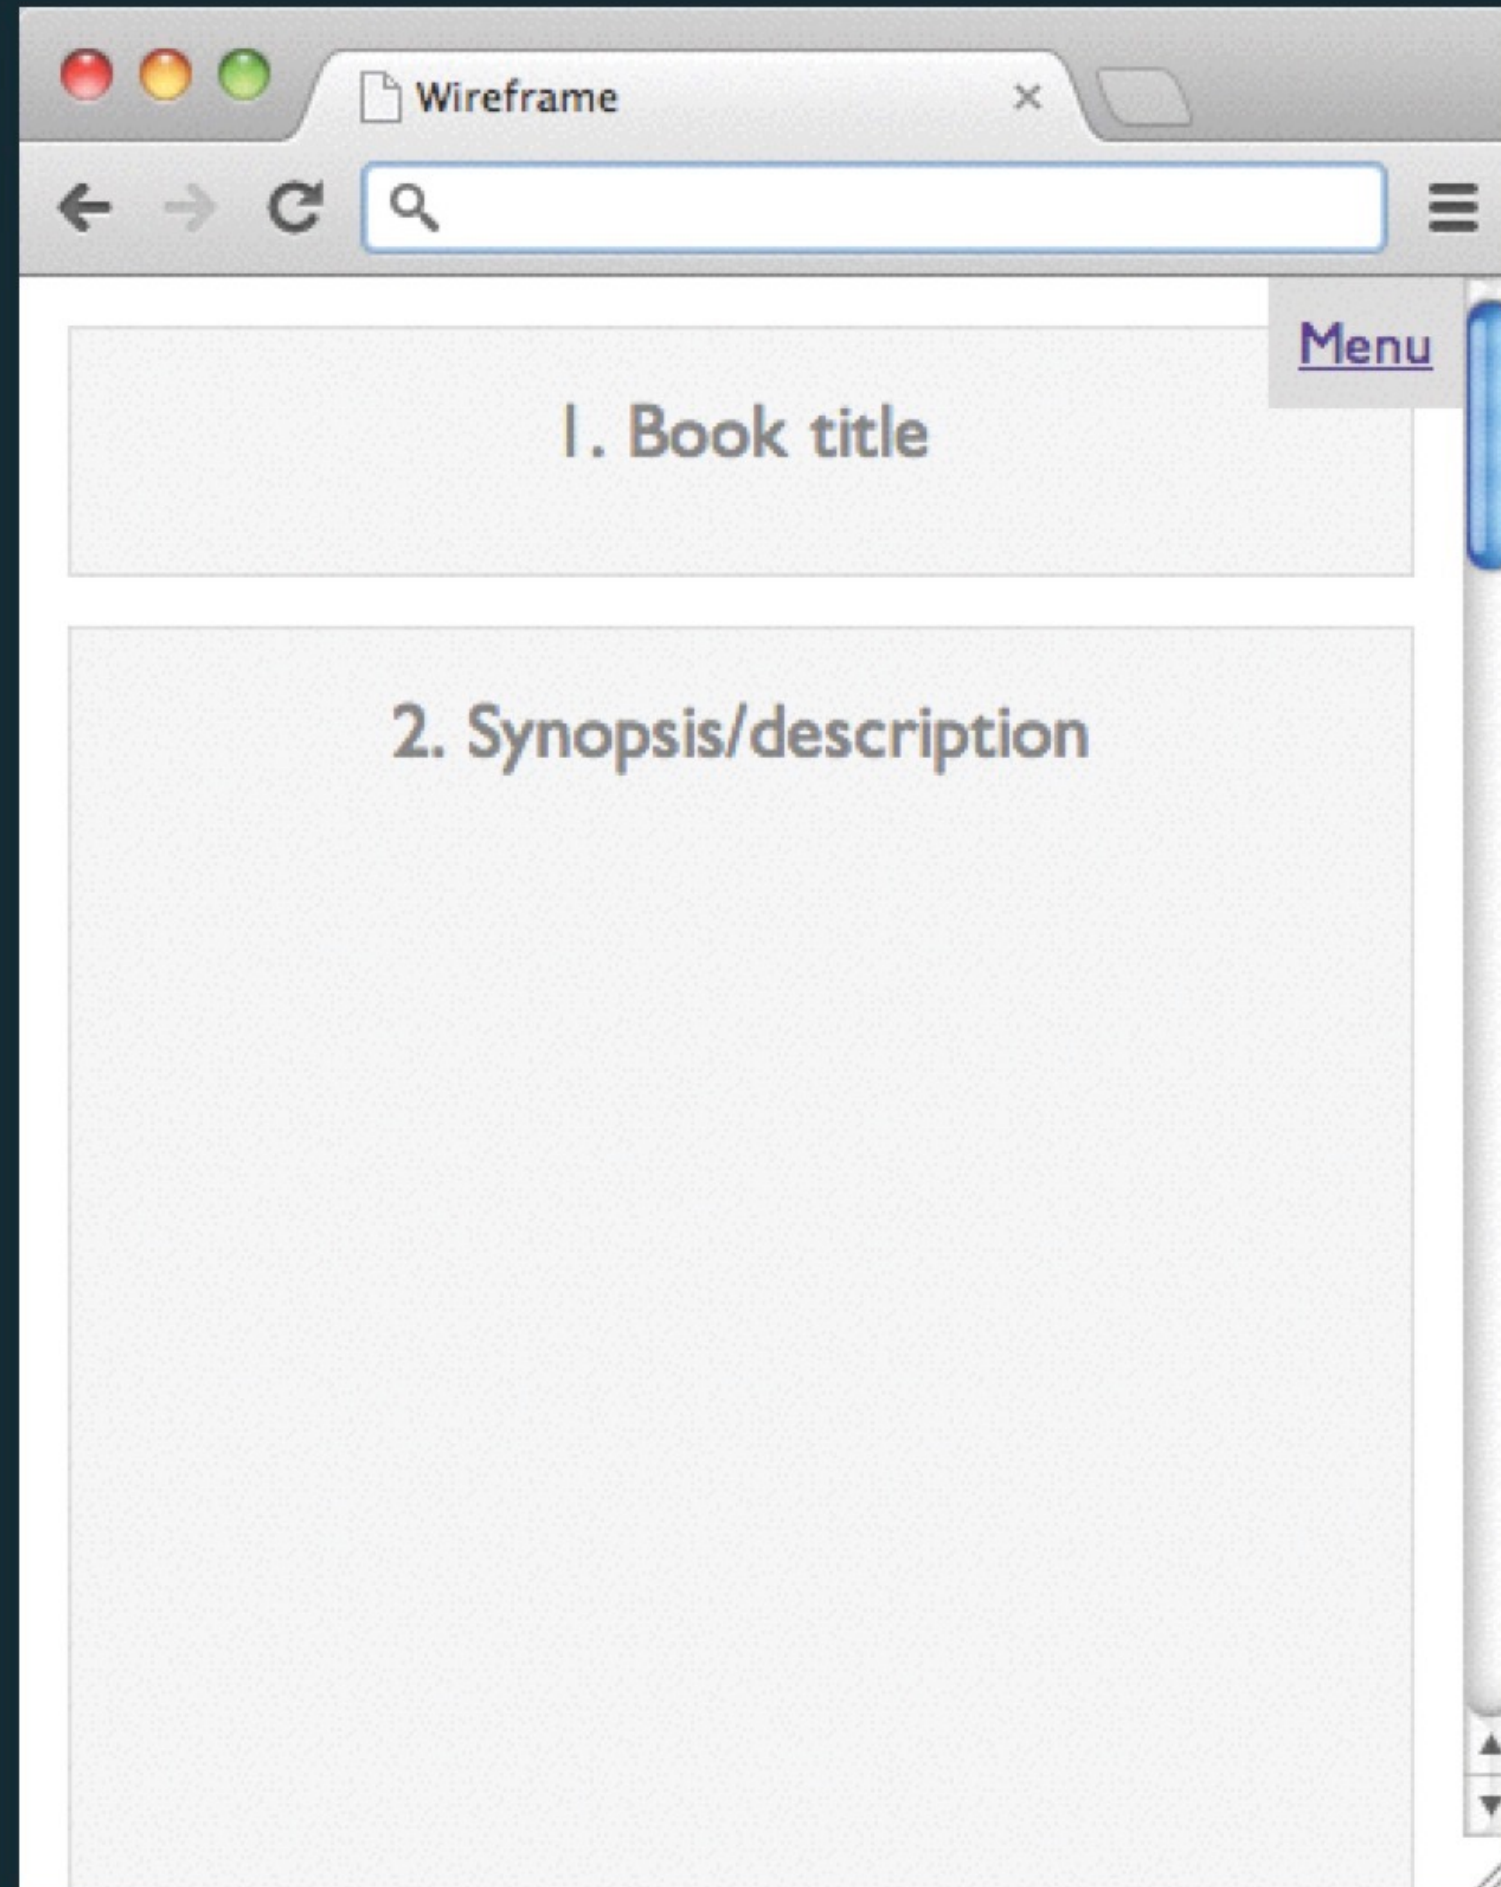

The best mobile experiences follow users from one place to another no matter what device they use. They seem to effortlessly fuse content, context, and user behavior. The result means we can start a video on our commute, keep watching at our desk, then pick up where we left off once we get home.

Keeping the competitive flame alive.

With its long and proud athletic tradition, Syracuse University has had its share of legendary rivalries. Sometimes the rivalry has a specific starting point; other times, it just evolves over the years. And even though the players and the coaches may change, the desire to triumph over a scorned opponent remains constant.

AMERICA'S OLDEST SPORT

SPORTS HISTORY RIVALRY: SYRACUSE VS. UCONN

The Syracuse University of Connecticut rivalry was notable for a couple of reasons. First, it pitted two Hall of Fame coaches—Jim Boeheim and Joe Calbi—against each other in the basketball powerhouse Big East Conference. Second, it was Syracuse and UConn that played a historic Big East Tournament quarterfinal game in 2005.

Communication —

02 Alignment

Standups.

Standups.

Weekly on video, the rest just text.

Need to highlight priorities and the blockers. Regularly check-in with colleagues: “How can I help you today?”

18 mins.

18-mins Meetings.

Needed for alignment, but hurt productivity massively. Sandbox meetings to a specific min count — e.g. 18mins, 38 mins. Never 15/30/45.

Meetings.

Send out a meeting agenda and invite everyone to add notes to it beforehand.

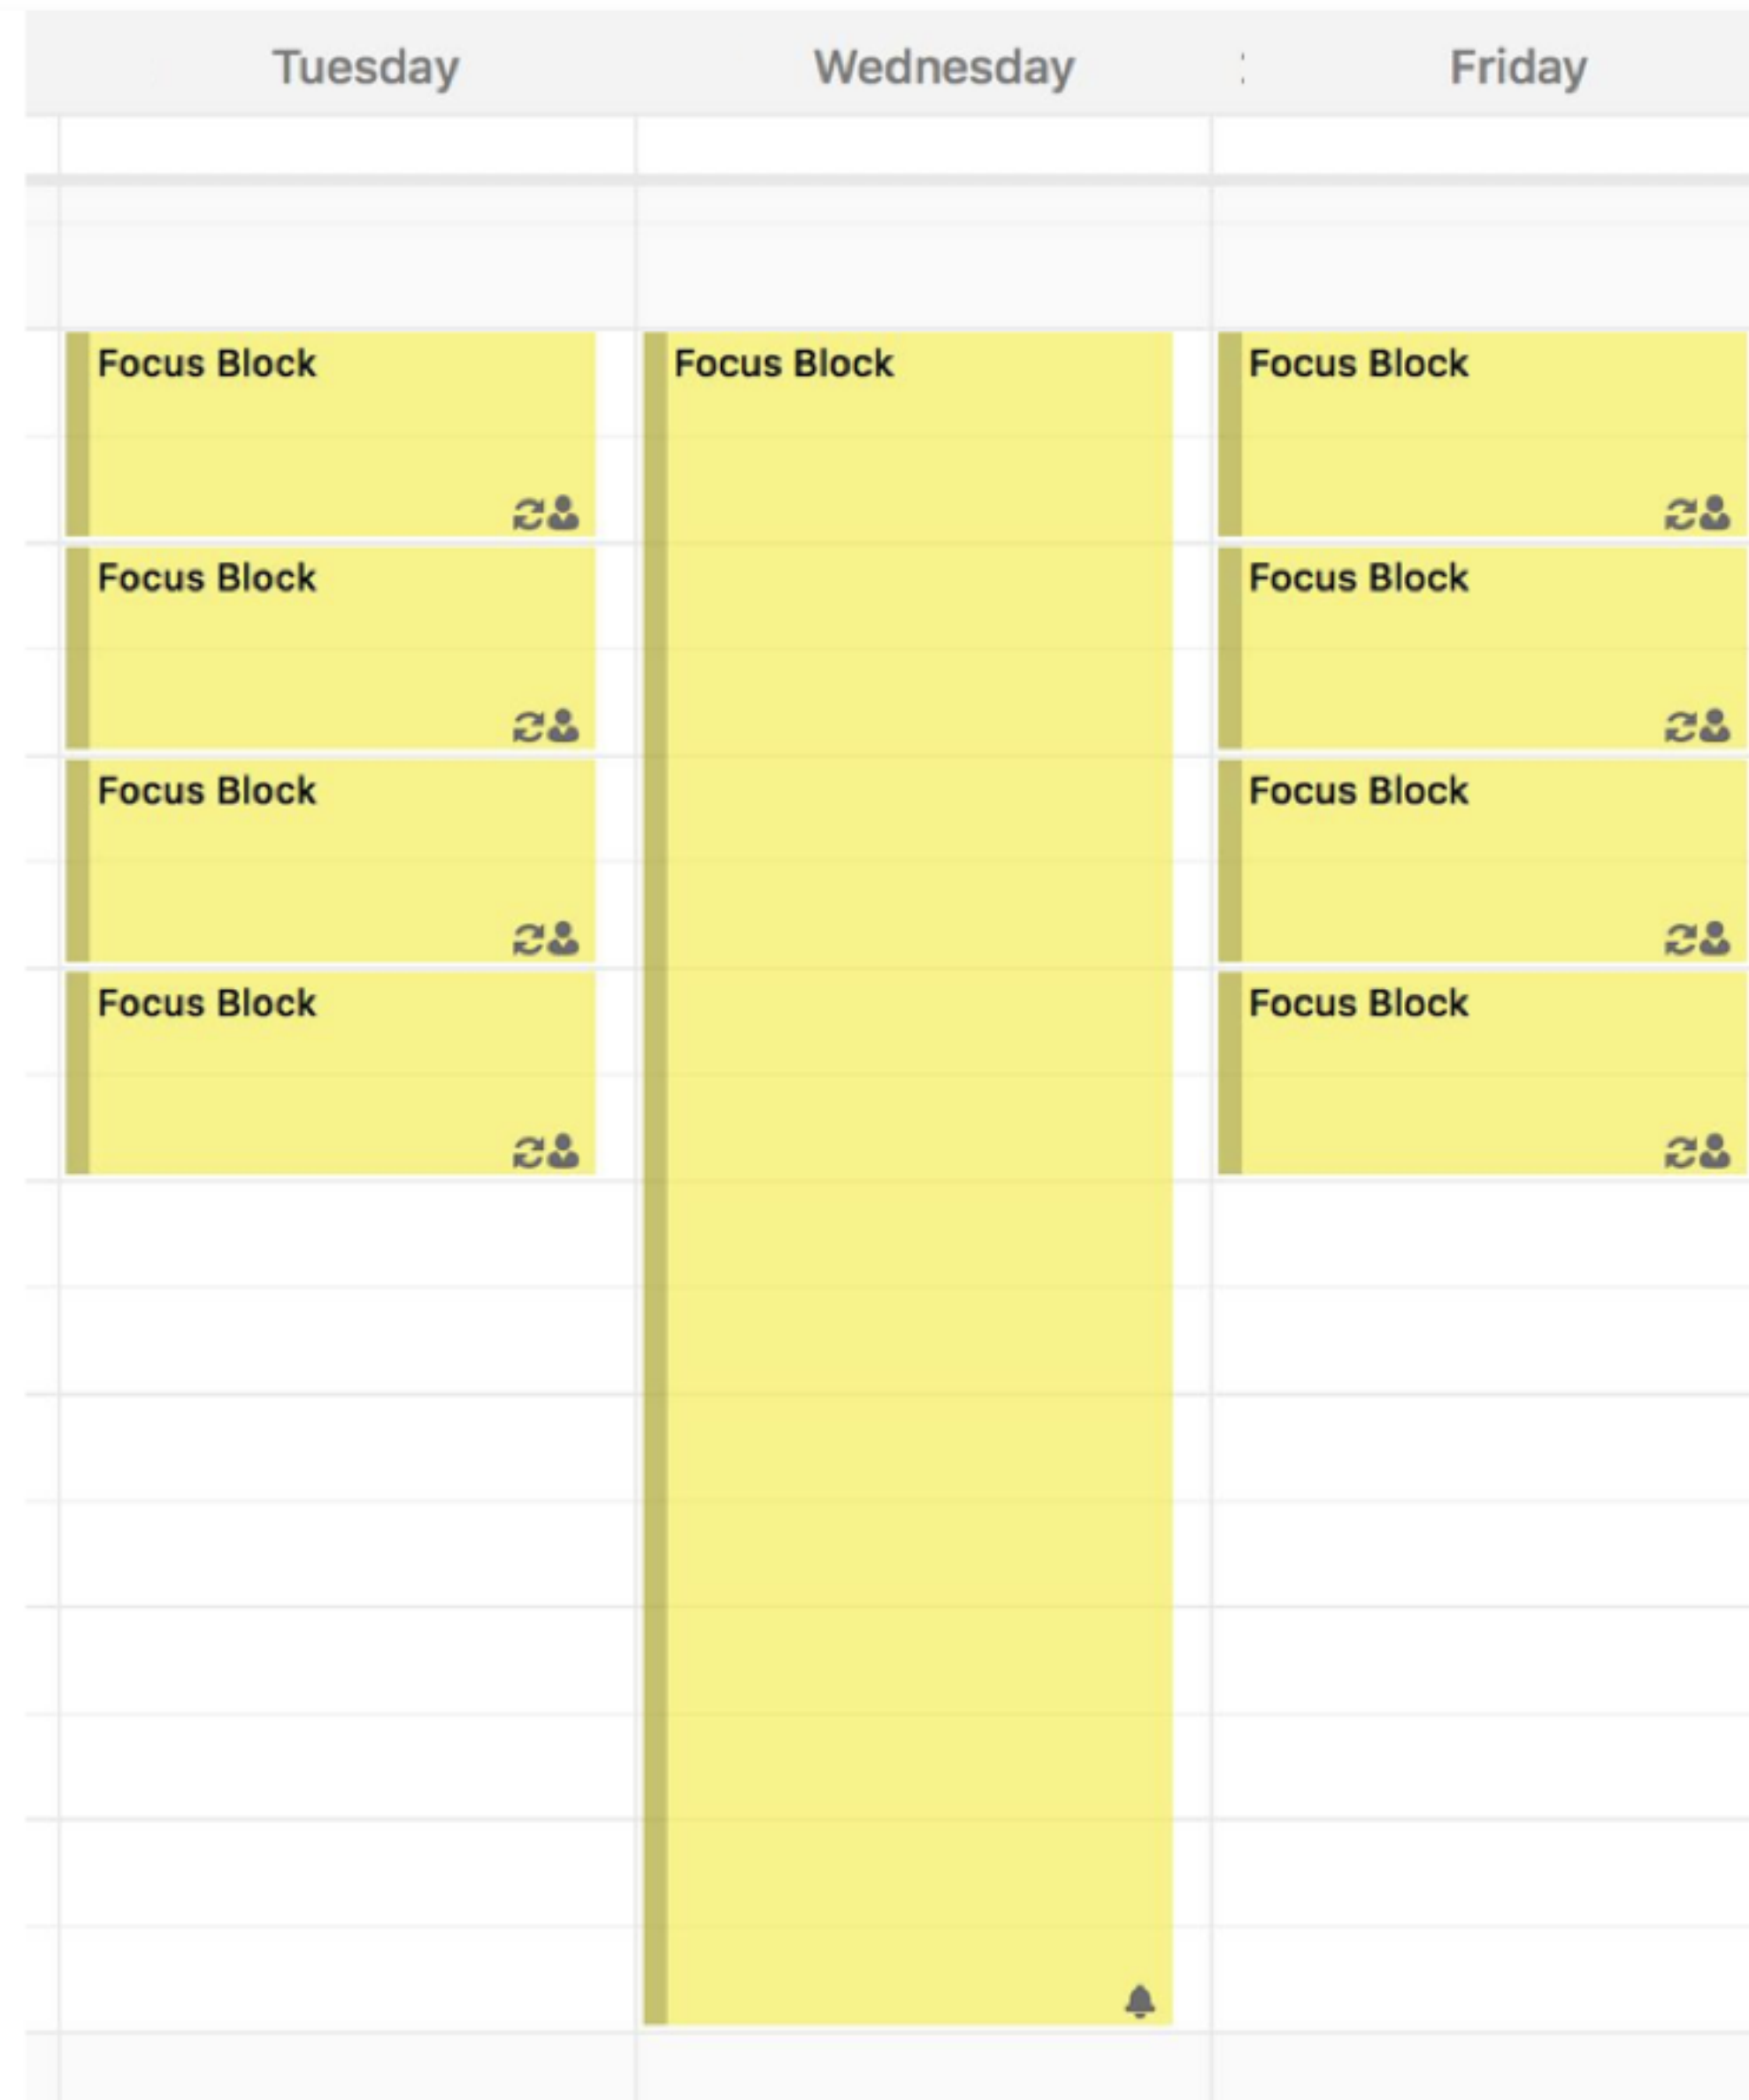

Enough time to go deep on a subject but not enough to get lost in a rabbit hole.

Focus Blocks

Blocks of time free of meetings to reduce context switching and increase time for you to do the work that only you can do.

- Tuesday 9am–1pm
- Wednesday all day
- Friday 9am–1pm

9am
1pm

Focus Blocks.

Task switching is the biggest hit on productivity. Start by suggesting a day when no regular meetings can take place (allowing for exceptions).

Focus Blocks.

Encourage the team to have only 1 communication channel in that time.

- Need to reach me now: call/Telegram
- Reply OK within 1h: DM on Slack
- Reply OK within a day: public Slack/Notion
- Reply OK within a few days: email

Zoom Fatigue.

Zoom Fatigue.

Never more than 2 Zoom calls a day.

Remote is slower and more exhausting.

Encourage everyone to turn on their cam for the call to avoid multi-taskers.

Language.

Language.

In a big company, you always look through a microscope, not a telescope.

Specialized teams have very specific, and scoped type of language.

Language.

In a big company, you always look through a microscope, not a telescope.

As a result, language specialization starts to create fragmentation.

Language.

Create overlaps between design and development teams. Include designers in dev conversations. Include devs in design conversations — and decisions.

Keep a diary.

Keep a diary.

Keep a separate doc/card for every person you have a meeting with.

Reference it in your calendar invites, use it as a running agenda. Gives you a full record of conversations over time.

Estimate buffers.

Estimate buffers.

Estimation formula: $2 \times \pi \times r + 2$ weeks.

With r being your most optimistic assumption of how much time you'll need to deliver. The rest is your buffer.

Late work.

Late work.

Staying up late to fix a bug or finish a project is expensive. Usually requires a full refactoring the next morning, and often isn't discussed with colleagues.

Conflicts.

Conflicts.

Ask both person how much they care (on the scale from 1–10). The one who cares more, wins but then also carries the responsibility and ownership.

Exposure hours.

Exposure hours.

Strong sense of growing with customers,
with focus on experience, authenticity,
personality, trust and relationships.

Initially speaking to customer every Friday, later “at every conference”.

Learning inform next decisions.

The Guidelines —

03 Remote

Water Cooler.

Water Cooler.

We often romanticize the serendipity of running into people by accident. But this often leads to interruptions, not brilliant ideas. Great ideas can be everywhere.

Remote Space.

Remote Space.

We need a space for people to share, discuss, annotate and ideate. This could be a collaborative text document, a virtual environment, code sandbox.

Getting the process right

Summary

- 01 – Creative process is never linear, and it needs buffers.
- 02 – Conversations need to be about alignment, not tools.
- 03 – Create overlaps between design and dev teams.
- 04 – We need a holistic overview of visible metrics.
- 05 – KANO model gives us priorities to focus on.
- 06 – Avoid distractions with 18mins-meetings, focus blocks.
- 07 – Encourage everyone to turn on their camera.
- 08 – Keep a separate doc/card for every meeting.
- 09 – Always include estimate buffers: $2 \times \pi \times r + 2$ weeks.
- 10 – Exposure hours with customers helps stay on track.
